The Perth Caravan & Camping Show, Western Australia's biggest and most popular outdoor exhibition of all things related to the caravanning and on-the-road lifestyle, is saddling up and moving from Ascot Racecourse to Belmont Racecourse in 2007.

Organisers, Caravan Industry Australia WA, believe moving to the Belmont Racecourse will offer better access and a more user-friendly format for visitors.

“The number of exhibitors has been growing each year as the industry expands to meet customer interest and demand and the move will meet the expanding needs of the Show.

“We can centralise some of the parking on the oval in the middle, house the tourism information stands in the air-conditioned grandstand and utilise the landscape to develop some different activities,” said Pat Strahan, CIAWA CEO and Show organiser.

So make a note in your diary not to miss this spectacular opportunity to see all the latest products and information all in one place plus demonstrations, seminars, specials and great prize competitions. The weekend will feature a range of activities for adults and children, making it a great day out.
